CAMP STUBBS.

The Last Day of the Encampment—The Governor and Members of His Staff Review the Cadets.

The cadets at Camp Stubbs were as busy as bees yesterday morning. Arms were brightened up, clothes brushed, boots blacked and everything put in ship shape in expectancy of the Governor's visit and the day's program.

The original sentence of Cadet Knapp was commuted, and in lieu of it he was ordered to saw a day's supply of wood for the cook.

From 8:30 to 10 o'clock A. M. a battalion drill, platoon drill and company drill, then an extended order drill was held. In the afternoon Governor Jones, Adjutant General Galusha, Col. J. J. Crosby and Col. J. A. Conbole, members of the Governor's staff, also Capt. E. C. Phelps of Company C, and Lieutenant Hays of Company A, N. N. G. appeared on the ground. Promptly at 2 o'clock the Cadet Battalion was called out and passed in review before the Governor and visiting officers, during which many difficult maneuvers were executed. The manual of arms was performed and exhibitions of firing given. There was a large crowd of spectators present, many of whom were ladies, who took a decided interest in the military maneuvers and were profuse in their compliments of the boys.

At the conclusion of the review a competitive individual drill was given by members of Companies A and B. The judges were General Galusha, Captain Phelps and Lieutenant Hays. The cadets formed in line and were put through the manual of Arms by Major Osburn, and at the slightest mistake of a cadet he was dismissed from the line. This proceeded until the contest had simmered down to L. Ede of Company A and M. A. Feeney of Company B.

It seemed almost impossible to cause these two young cadets to make a bobble, although the commands were given in quick succession. It was plainly to be seen that fatigue was telling on both, when Ede failed and Feeney was declared the victor. During the entire drill the members of the two companies stood apart from each other and watched the two boys intently, and when Ede fell Company B's men cheered wildly and rushed up to Feeney, and six of the cadets raised him to their shoulders and carried him to his tent, cheering loudly all the while.

The cadets were again formed into line and marched to Lieutenant Hamilton's tent, and there formed into a hollow square. Lieutenant Hamilton introduced Governor Jones, who addressed the cadets, complimenting them on their appearance and the magnificence of their drill. He thanked Lieutenant Hamilton for his interest in the young men, and also thanked President Stubbs in the name of the people of the State for the good work now being done for Nevada's young men in the State University.

Governor Jones then presented the prizes as follows:

To E. A. Powers of Company A, a gold medal, for the best score at ranges No. 1, 2 and 3.

To E. D. Burney of Company A, for the best record of attendance and neat appearance at drill, $5 in coin.

To M. A. Feeney of Company B, for individual competitive drill, $5 in coin.

To L. Ede of Company A, second prize in individual drill, $2 in coin.

EVENING PROGRAM.

The crowd at the University grounds was larger in the evening than during the afternoon. At 6 o'clock there was a dress parade, the usual exercises and maneuvers being carried out and finally passing in review before the Major and officers. A brief rest was allowed, when preparations were made for

THE SHAM BATTLE.

A detachment from Company B was sent out just before dark, Company A and part of B remaining in camp. Shortly after, outposts were stationed, and at about 8:30 the largest portion of the attacking party made an attack on the north end of the camp, and all those remaining in camp prepared to defend it. A detachment of the attacking party in the mean time made a strategic movement, coming in from the south side of the camp, capturing the sentinels and the officer of the day and placing them in the guard house, and posted their own sentinels. By this movement the attacking party had control of the camp, and immediately detailed two men for the purpose of taking Lieutenant Hamilton and placing him in the guard house, but before this was accomplished Company A rallied and fought the invaders, recapturing the guard house and gaining control of the camp. During the attack a large amount of firing was done that could be plainly heard all over town. Sergeant Wright of Company B was injured during the fracas by having an eye burned slightly with powder.

BREAKING CAMP.

At 4:25 this morning the first call for reveille was sounded and at 4:30 the last call. Breakfast was served, after which the cadets were ordered to "strike tents," marched to the armory and dismissed, and camp Stubbs will remain a pleasant memory among the young men for many years to come.

NOTES.

Major Lem Osburn received many compliments for his soldierly bearing and his proficiency as an officer yesterday.

Captain Linscott of Company B is every inch a commander, and a soldier. At a bobble that was made by one of his men yesterday, he rounded him up in military style and several old soldiers who were standing together on the hill, remarked that Linscott had a natural talent for a disciplinarian.

M. A. Feeney (Little Johnny Dugan) is the pet of Company B, now, he carried off the honors and the boys are proud of him.

Company B carried off the honors for having the largest number of men in the guard house during the week.

The boys were given a little more liberty last night in and about camp, owing to the fact that the week's encampment was drawing to a close. Tattoo was held back until midnight, and a grand high-jinks was kept up until that hour.

LOVELOCK NOTES.

Items of Interest from Western Humboldt.

J. H. Thies shipped twenty-one cars of fine beef cattle to the Chicago market last Tuesday. Those cattle have been fed for the last month on wheat hay and are in a prime condition. This is the last shipment of the season.

There were 346 cars of live stock shipped from Lovelock during the winter, of which 170 cars were cattle, 170 cars were sheep and 66 cars were horses.

S. B. Young is building a fine livery stable, 50 feet front by 100 feet deep, on Main street. It will be completed before the end of the month.

An English company has purchased the nickel mines in Cottonwood. New works are being erected at the mines. D. D. Grannis is running a four-horse stage twice a week from Lovelock to Cottonwood, carrying mail, passengers and light freight. The distance to the nickel mines is forty-five miles and the schedule time is ten hours.

The alfalfa fields are looking green, the farmers are busy irrigating and all expect good crops this year. There is a general hope that times will improve and some say they are on the mend.

The "bicycle craze" has reached Lovelock, and we expect to see Professor Lyup on a wheel in a few days.

The level roads in the valley are favorable for cyclists and the "craze" is likely to become epidemic.

The Lovelock Company's flouring mill, which was disabled last week by a broken cog wheel, is again running and making fine flour.

The Reinhardt Photograph Co. of Winnemucca have pitched their tent on Main street and doing a rushing business.

The young men will give a necktie and apron party this evening, May 1st, at Felix's Hall.

L. P. Falem and W. H. Grannis are keeping bachelor's hall and are very much in need of an assistant cook.

Among the arrivals and departures to-day were Mrs. J. J. Campbell, son and two daughters from Elko; Philip Skewes and P. Wolf from Cottonwood; B. F. Thornton from Bernice; and John T. Reed, our postmaster, left for San Francisco.

SAGEBRUSH.THE WOMEN ORATORS

Arrangements Being Made for a Large Meeting.

The committee appointed to arrange for the reception and meeting of Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Anna Shaw, who are to address the people of Reno on the 17th instant, is attending to all the details and will endeavor to secure a large audience for the distinguished speakers. Hoskins' brass band has been engaged for the occasion, the Virginia & Truckee railroad will issue half fare tickets to the people of Carson, Virginia City and other points along the road, and Miss B. K. Clapp has been invited to preside. The meeting is expected to be one of the largest ever held in Reno.

Miss Susan B. Anthony was among the very first who advocated equal rights for the sexes. She is a lady of great force of character and of more than National reputation. Mrs. Shaw has the reputation of being one of the most eloquent woman speakers in the United States, and those who fail to hear her will miss a treat.

A Fire at Virginia.

At about 4:30 yesterday afternoon a fire broke out in the club rooms of the Washoe Club, situated in the Douglas block on C street, Virginia. An alarm was turned in and the flames were soon under control. The club rooms and the stores immediately below were badly flooded. Davis' stationery stock was badly damaged by water, as was also Con Ahern's Crystal Palace saloon. The location was a bad place for a big fire, being right in the heart of the city and a serious fire at Virginia now would be a hard blow.

A Complimentary Party.

Company C, N. N. G. will give a complimentary party to the cadets and young lady students of the University. The lady members of the gymnasium are invited. Gentlemen who receive invitations are requested to bring ladies. The party will be given at the company's armory.

Delegates to the Grand Lodge, K. of P. The following representatives were elected at a meeting of Amity Lodge, No. 8, K. of P., to the Grand Lodge of the order, which will meet at Wadsworth, June 18th, next: W. D. McNelly, S. J. Hodgkinson, B. M. Coffin, J. A. Lewis, H. J. Thyes, Herman Ash, Sol. Levy.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Storm and Warm Waves—Two Distinct Temperatures.

(Copyrighted 1895, by W. T. Foster.)

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 3.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm waves to cross the continent from the 4th to the 8th, and 10th to the 14th. The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 14th, cross the western mountain country by close of the 15th, the great central valleys from the 16th to the 18th, and the Eastern States about the 19th. This disturbance will bring some of the heaviest rains of the month, but these rains will not generally occur where most needed. The tendency will be decidedly toward too much rain in the southeastern States and a deficiency toward the northwest.

A warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 14th, the great central valleys the 16th and Eastern States the 18th. A cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 17th, the great central valleys the 19th and Eastern States the 21st.

SENSIBLE TEMPERATURES.

There are two very distinct kinds of temperatures and two kinds of thermometers for recording them. One of these temperatures is that of a dry, the other a wet atmosphere. Zero weather in a dry atmosphere along the 40th degree of north latitude would be a Paradise compared with the same temperature in a damp atmosphere, and a temperature of 100 in a dry atmosphere is as agreeable to man and beast as 90 in a damp atmosphere saturated with evaporated water.

Captain Glassford, formerly connected with the national weather bureau, now chief officer of the army, department of Colorado, and stationed at Denver, recently published an article in which he says:

"There are in all temperature records two elements, the sensible temperature or that which expresses the heat or cold felt by the human being; and the apparent temperature, a mere record of how the mechanical thermometer is affected. It is the apparent that receives publication, greatly to the undue advantage of the east and the detriment of the west."

"The measure of these differences between the sensible and apparent temperatures is shown not by the ordinary thermometer placed in some what the same environment as the human body in summer. This is accomplished by clothing the thermometer bulb with cotton and permitting it to take up moisture by capillarity of the cotton fibres from a cup of water or other humid source."

"The resulting evaporation about the wetted bulb is similar to that of the clothed human body from which the perspiration is evaporated, thus causing coolness. The coolness is in direct ratio to the dryness of the air; that is, the dryer the atmosphere the greater the evaporation and consequent coolness."

"The converse of this is true in winter; that is, the dryer the air the less the discomfort felt from extreme cold. Perhaps all have experienced the dangerous chilling effect of very cold weather accompanied by a damp atmosphere."

By a map Capt. Glassford illustrates the average temperatures for July showing the sensible temperature to be, for the northern parts of the United States, 61.4 and the mechanical temperature 83.1 degrees.

As to the effects on animal life, probably also to some extent on vegetable life, this gives to the east half of the United States a much colder, sensible temperature in winter and a much warmer, sensible temperature in summer than is experienced in the west half. All this results from the difference in amount of moisture in the atmosphere.

To some extent this will explain the popularity of my weather bulletins and why they have a circulation of over two million copies weekly.

A very large portion of the people—perhaps ninety-nine out of a hundred—make their estimates of weather events through their senses and not by the readings of thermometers and other mechanical instruments which are not fitted to the senses of animal life.

Those who experience weather changes and also watch the records made by the weather bureau know that the two seem to have very little relation and therefore it is well apparent why the common people can appreciate the fulfillment of those long range weather forecasts so much better than do the weather bureau officials.

Those who have had experience with a well-filled cellar in winter know that it is not the coldest weather, as marked on the thermometer now in common use, that freezes the potatoes, apples, etc., but it is that cold spell that brings with it a very damp atmosphere.

Plumbers may have noticed this also, for 20 degrees below zero gives them little work in repairing pipes when the atmosphere is dry, while 10 degrees below with a damp atmosphere will set all the plumbers to work.

Back From Old England

Mr. William Plimner has returned from a four months visit to Old England, accompanied by his sister-in-law, Miss Lucy J. Davis. He says times are much worse in the old country than here. Farmers are driven to the wall and the gold standard does not help them in the least, in fact some of them begin to think that it injures them.

Mr. Plimner is in robust health and the shaking up which he received on the briny deep seems to have added to his avordupois.

Bunches on His Neck

Twice Lanced by Physician and Cured by Hood's.

There is no form of Scrofula more obstinate or more common than swelling of the glands of the neck. But every form of blood disease yields to the potent powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read the following from a grateful father:

"Our little boy when a little over a year old had three large bunches on the left side of his neck. A physician lanced the bunches twice. He advised a blood medicine and we commenced giving our boy Hood's Sarsaparilla. He has taken four bottles. The bunches on his neck have disappeared and

The incisions have healed, only scars remaining to show where his neck was lanced. My wife and I think there is nothing to be compared to Hood's Sarsaparilla and we shall always keep it.

THE OLD DOCTOR WANTED AN OR- DER RELEASING HIS SON.

The Secretary of the Navy and President
Arthur Were Going Fishing and Didn't Want to Be Bothered, but Changed Their Minds When They Heard the Argument.

In the southern part of Orleans county lives a doctor who is known far and wide among the country folk, and whose fame extends likewise into cities far from his home.

The doctor is a gentleman of the old school, courteous, with a southern accent when he becomes excited, for he was born in Virginia. The worst thing that can be said about this doctor is that he is an extremely hard sweeper. He sweeps a little when he is calm, but when he is excited his vocabulary of in-vectives is almost without a rival. Many stories are told about this famous old doctor, and this is one of them:

The doctor had a son, and all his affections seemed centered in him. He resolved that this son should become a doctor, and that the father's mantle should fall upon the son's shoulders.
But the boy disappointed him. When he grew up, he didn't wish to study medicine. He said he had no taste that way. No plans of life seemed to fit his ideals exactly. He tried this, and he tried that, and nothing satisfied him.

At last he decided he would go to West Point. The doctor yielded, and the son tried the preliminary examinations, passed them and was appointed a cadet. He tried the entrance examinations, passed them and at last became a real cadet at West Point. Even the old doctor was proud and happy now.

But the son did not do as well as he had expected at West Point. He found that things military in reality were not as things military in ideal. He tried the January examinations and failed.

His heart was broken. Like many another youth before him, he could never bear the disgrace of going home. So he made as large a fool of himself as he could and enlisted in the navy, at the Brooklyn navy yard. His father received notice of his son's rash act and said nothing. His heart was too full. But he threw a few necessities into his grip
and that very night started for Brooklyn. There he found the admiral. He told him the story. He begged him to do something for him, but the admiral could do nothing. His heart seemed broken. Was there no hope? The admiral told him he could go to the secretary of the navy, state his case, and perhaps something might be done. He could promise nothing, but at least it might be tried. The old doctor elbowed at this slight hope, and without waiting to eat anything he took the very first train for Washington.

All these things happened during the first year of Arthur's administration, and as every one knows, William B.
Chandler was secretary of the navy.
Arthur and Chandler were sportsmen, and whenever they had the chance they would set out on little fishing excursions of their own. Now, it happened that they were just ready to go forth upon one of these little jaunts when the old doctor arrived in Washington. He drove straight to the home of the secretary of the navy and found he was at the White House, so to the White House went the doctor post haste. He inquired for Chandler and was told that he and the president were just starting for a fishing trip and could not be seen.

"But I must see him, sir! It is very important, sir!" exclaimed the doctor.
He was using his soft southern accent
now, for he was very excited.

"But you can't, sir," said the servant.

"I can, sir, and I will, sir!" and with no more words he pushed the astonished servant out of his way and strode through the hall. "Where is the secretary of the navy, sir?" he asked the first person he met.

"In that room, sir," said the man,
pointing.

The doctor rapped and walked in.
There stood the president and the secretary, getting their things together.

"I am Dr. —, and I've come to get my son back, sir!" said the doctor, and then he told the story of his son's mistake. The secretary looked at him and then at the president. "I'm sorry, sir," he said, "but you have come at the wrong time. We can't bother with such things now. We are going on a trip, President Arthur and I, and we do not like to be interrupted." Here he bowed and stopped.

The old doctor drew himself up, looked down at him, for Mr. Chandler is not a large man. His old eyes fairly blazed. He seemed choking. Suddenly he burst forth in a voice of passion:

"Do you think that I am going to let my son stay in that ship, sir, to give you the chance to kill a few meanly no account fish? Do you think I am going to break my heart so that you can have yoh pleasure? Look at me, sir, I am not a thin thing like last night, sir, I see the dust of travel upon my clothes!
Do you think that I have traveled night and day, and now I am going to be put off because you are going fishing? Who are you, sir? You are my servant, sir!
Who pays yoh salary? I do, sir! Who pays yoh rent? I do, sir! Who owns the boat you go off fishing in? I do, and now, when I come to ask you to get my son out of my navy, you have not time because you are going fishing! By — sir, if you don't get my son off that ship, old as I am, I'll thrash yoh —
said right off yoh body!"

The old doctor stopped, breathless.
His two huanors looked at him aghast.
For a minute no word was spoken. At last President Arthur said, "Chandler,
I guess yoh'd better write that order."
Chandler wrote it, and a little later three men might have been seen engaged in discussing three bottles of claret.
They were all smiling, but one of them had a look of great happiness on his good old face. It was the old doctor.—
